Title : Bed and breakfast

I hear your car in the drive way
I know the sound of your engine wheel

I hear your steps on the staircase
If it's my heartbeat it's hard to tell

I'm already at the door to let you in How do you dare coming back for more
I wonder where I keep falling

CHORUS:

Checking in, checking out
It's confusing
This bed & breakfast ain't my style
Checking in, checking out
You're abusing me
You never stay for more than a while
Checking in, checking out
It's confusing
This bed & breakfast ain't my style
Checking in, checking out
You're abusing me
You won't stay for more than a while

I hate the sight of you leaving
Your empty chair and your coffee cup

I try to hide what I'm feeling
I'm wondering who is your next stop

You're already out the door, you're on your way
You can't explain what you're looking for
You wear me out with this game you play-ay

CHORUS

Dude, I put up a sign that made you think my rooms are for rent

You got something wrong, 'cause that was never what I meant
And you've had your last leave over, 'cause the season is at end
The hotel here is closing and will not open ever again
