(Un, deux, trois)

Dublin crow, dublin crow, tell me everything you know Show me all the life I've seen through your eyes Take my soul, take my soul, higher than you've ever flown
Drop me right into the water, from the sky

When I submerge up from the ocean, covered in that muddy kelp
If I'm drowning please don't save me 'cause I've gotta save myself
Fly back home to tell the others that I always needed help until today,
yeah
And I'll finally find my way (hey)

English crow, english crow, does the sunlight ever show?
There's been rain for forty days inside my heart Bitter cold, bitter cold, I just want the world to know That I lost the finish line right from the start

Can you sing off my hangover?
Can you break away this crust?
For I am the weakest scarecrow in a field that's made of dust
For I promise if you help me to my feet to both of us I lead today
And I'll finally find my way

Scottish crow, Scottish crow, does this tattoo really
That my bloodline has been your line all along?
And just when you think you know yourself that's when you will outgrow And you'll settle in that tree where you belong

Did I ever know, God, was it just a lie or two?
Was I raised to think that I would never ever lose my view?

When I thought that guns were made for killing pretty things like you
I've got to say, yeah
That I've finally found my way
