have you ever missed the one thing you tried not find?
have you ever heard a voice you wished was mine? have you ever tried to distance yourself from the one thing you want in life?

found myself looking for light in the shade found all of my diamonds had turned to jade heard an angel crying out into the bitter cold saw a blind man drop his cane to find his way across the road
i held your picture against the night and then i gave up the fight

let your hand reach out to me let your heart be my eyes to see
and we'll be on shelter
in the storm of life

i can feel the weight of your voice on my soul a thousand miles away you put my life on hold lost the memory of your touch and outspread i was alone found myself wrapped in silence drifting alone
i held your picture against the night

in the storm of life

how can i regret the moves i haven't made i was on the border of life i couldn't save but every prayer leads to you and your arms are home don't leave me here alone

in the storm of life
