She buries her head in her pillow again
She's looking for love, oh, she's wondering when
And it's always, always the same
Just another smile, oh, just another face
And she's looking for You, will You tell her?

I know you feel all alone
I know you've lost all your hope
But God, He's right there where you are
I know a love that is real
A forgiveness that heals, reach out
God is where you are

She wants to go home but doesn't know why
She's never felt love wipe the tears from her eyes
As she picks herself off the floor
And reaches for the clothes that she wants to throw away
And she's looking for You, will You tell her?

I know you feel all alone
I know you've lost all your hope
But God, He's right there where you are
I know a love that is real
A forgiveness that heals, reach out
God is where you are

When you can't speak, He's listening
When you can't reach, you're never too far
When you're crying, He sees your tears
When you're alone, reach out He is there
And He's looking for you, just reach out

I know you feel all alone
I know you've lost all your hope
But God, He's right there where you are
I know a love that is real
A forgiveness that heals, reach out
God is where you are

I know you feel all alone
I know you've lost all your hope

But God, He's right there where you are
I know a love that is real
A forgiveness that heals, reach out
God is where you are

She buries her head in her pillow
She's looking for love oh, she's wondering when
