Strange and beautiful
Dying sunsets

In the time it takes from day to day
To push away a bit of everything
I'll scratch my face and fill the space
Find a new song to sing

My tears they bleed to plant the seed
Of something sacred and pure
Where they fell I cannot tell
Would you finally let me know for sure

There's something new here I have found
Instead of nothing that abounds
It sets me free
There's something new here I have found, right now

Strange and beautiful
Like a sunset on a dying day
Strange and beautiful
Swore I'd always feel this way
