Whenever called upon, you were always there
No complaints found the time to spare
Your kind-hearted nature drove your mind to despair
You felt so alone and you thought no one cared

If I'd have known you were in pain
I'd have helped to see you through
If I'd have known you were suffering
I would have been there for you

I still find it so hard to believe
I'm never gonna see you again
It breaks my heart each time I think
I'm never gonna see you again
All your scams, all your crazy plans
Determination to see them through
Hid your tears, locked your hopes and tears
So deep inside I never knew

I know this life can be so cruel
Look at what it did to you
I know this world can be so cold
And I despise it for sucking out your soul

I still find it so hard to believe
I'm never gonna see you again
It breaks my heart each time I think
I'm never gonna see you again

Rest in peace!
