"Lovers Dancing"

I've walked in time with past regrets
Remembered some forgot the rest
I cannot hold the weight alone
You can't let go of what you know
As beautiful as it was then
The love still moving through my hands
It collapses and builds itself into something
You may never understand

Want to call out hope
We have lost all hope
They are the lovers dancing

Now they can tell our hearts are heavy
You can tell it's in our voice
This will give them all of reason now
And we want a choice
As hopeless as it may have been
The love still moving through my hands
I am building and making a beautiful thing
That will never be made again

We are the only sky high of the city
That we want to call out hope
But we're all fragile lovers and tragedies
We have lost all hope
We have lost it all tonight

They are the lovers dancing
So motionless alone
They are the lovers dancing
So hopeless and alone
