Tomorrow's gonna be different than today
Always bad and good haunted you along the way
Like the burning cover on the "september" that you can't forget
Till the time will tell, if you stay the same
Another chapter of life is bout to start
While you're thinking that you really that smart
Can't you see you have missing something in this life
Till the time will tell, if you stay the same
You're victim of life that you don't know
We can see that you've been crawling
While you feel that you're running now my friend
