When the rain starts to fall, I'll be on my way. Back to the place where you ran away. What did you want from me, 'cause all I wanted to be was your everything.

You've got me sitting here thinkin' that things will change. And i'm still sittin' counting up my mistakes.
For you I threw it all away. Its a good thing that I believe in better days....'Cause I, I don't deserve it. And you, you just won't let things change.

So I am down on my knees, saying darlin' please.
Please just let me in let me in, I aim to please. And don't you forget, not one second that we spent, under the influence of anything and everything I meant to you.
