Buzzcocks "Witness The Change"

Visit "Witness The Change" on MotoLyrics.com

In my mind there are mirrors
Reflecting on the past
The shattered hopes and dreams of a future
That was never meant to last

Just turn around now
Tell me what you see
Look all around you
Is this how things could be

Had enough of love neverlasting But now I know it never will Hanging around on the off chance Waiting for that certain thrill

Just turn around now See what we have done It's getting late now The future has begun

Witness the change Witness the change

Some kinds of love are magical mystical I wonder how I'd feel
If ever I should be so enchanted
To get a taste of what is real

Just look around now Tell me what you see Look all around you Is this how things could be

I feel the sound of thunder and laughter It's tearing me apart I start to fade till all that's remaining is The echo of my heart Just look around you See what we have done It's getting late now The future has begun Witness the change Witness the change

I have a feeling and I know it will never die Part of the answer for asking the reason why Out of the darkness the bright light surrounding me I am a part of everything I touch and see

I feel the sound of thunder and laughter It's tearing me apart
I hope that you will remember
The echo of my heart

Witness the change Witness the change

Visit Buzzcocks page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.