Plans, laws, and bones were meant to be broken
The rain in summer made it unspoken
The darker it gets
Outside our windows
The more I remember
How to let go

Please atlanta remember my name
Fuck it always looks like rain

I lost touch with the sweeter things
All those words like diamond rings
Spoken in a time of drought

They black my tongue

My teeth fall out

Always stormy our thoughts remain
Motherfuck the way it looks like rain

So would it matter now if you knew
I told your favorite singers to write for you
All the songs that changed your life
But the words were never ever right

So all my screaming was in vain
Motherfuck the way it looks like rain
