day in day out
I swallow your devotion swallow and shine false gratitude since my being, you, my possessor, my supposed protector, my greatest love have provided with not much more than a great deal of nurture for this seed of abhorrence I call myself your eyes narrate a story of ignorance and carelessness now as I watch you let the only one I care for fall I crumble inside
no more take your last breath and meet the torment that is my life with these actions you will become my effigy no more resistance, all is let loose for this is a true act of passion and filth
