my existence the godless above your twisted values I breathe released from the chains the indoctrine of my brain

the seeds of man misplaced its all inside me spit forth this feeling in me expelled from my within the fields you walk in you die in weakened man cries out for god to help him find his way, searching led astray until his his dying day living life on the esasy path sucking air you never had not meant to serve your breed the wait for heaven ill never need the air we share has too many worlds life hypnotized since birth your existence the shackled inside your hopeless world you breathe never free from your seliinflited misery
