Life is bigger than you are
Is there nothing left to talk about now
In this cold unholy lonely room
Yeah life is better where you are

Do you feel it's breaking up
Can you change and live it up
Does it help now that you're moving up
And it feels right just to have it all
Is it so predictable?
Is it all so damn political?
And I heard it all before now
I heard it all before you know so well

Life looks better from afar
Is it all the same or has it changed at all by now
In this starving money hungry world
Does our life look bigger than we are?

Do you feel it's breaking up,
Can you change and live it up
Does it help now that you're moving up
And it feels right just to have it all
Is it so predictable?
Is it all so damn political?
And I heard it all before now
I heard it all before you know so well

You wanna change the world
You wanna save us all
You want us to believe that everything we have we owe.
And when you change the world
Go give it all away
