You tuned out a reason
As it made a prey of your thoughts
But you won't believe them
As they're being broken apart

And I don't want to lose your faith
I don't want to let you down
Leaving you with more regret
Stealing everything I'd found
All because I want you bad
All because of appetite

It's my debt, my nature
So I cut the wire to myself
I've just been disabled
I don't have a thing left to sell

And I don't want to lose your faith
I don't want to let you down
Leaving you with more regret
Stealing everything I'd found
All because I want you bad
All because of appetite

All this strange, endless stuff
I've been made witness of
Isn't still near enough
I know, I know, I know...

And I don't want to lose your faith
I don't want to let you down
Leaving you with more regret
Stealing everything I'd found
All because I want you bad
All because of appetite
