To my dearest forsaken
Who the earth now has taken
Empty, the bottle drains no more

It is true that I loved you
Despite the harm now on you
Wash us, the river has you, boy

Here on the eve of too long
Where you'll think I have done wrong
Waking in fear of you no more

I'll put my trust in the savior
Fuming forces of nature
Strength of the stump I tied you, boy

To my dearest forsaken
Dearest vow I have broken
Pray o'er your angry hands no more

I'll put my trust in the savior
River may have me later
Sleep with my lost love for you boy
