Were you staring in the darkness on an autumn winter night were you waiting for your eyes to adjust to the light were you thinking of the one who came and took your mind away from all this

Did you realize that you'd lost the only love you've ever had and when you wake up next to strangers does it make you feel sad and do you ever feel ashamed when you can't remember the strangers' name

Did you think about the things you've had but did not want to keep and do the noises outside the window make it hard for you to fall asleep do you stay up all night as your eyes would adjust to the light

Did you really know all those who you really thought you knew and did they keep you from the things you thought you'd really like to do and do you ever feel sorry for certain things you said about them

Were you disappointed by the things you thought that you had found and do you still feel sorry for the people who walk aimlessly around and do they just fill up the space and make it hard for you to walk around in

Were you listening for something better you could hear and were you waiting for a nicer image to appear or do you love the things too much and hold them close until they disappear
