As sung in film by Bing Crosby and Fred Astaire:]

[BOTH:] In us you see a couple of song and dance men

[BING:] I'm the song

[FRED:] I'm the dance

[BOTH:] For laughter, joy and happiness, we're advance men

[BING:] With a song

[FRED:] And a dance

[BING:] I sing for my supper

[FRED:] I dance for my lunch

[BING:] I croon when the landlord comes around

[BOTH:] For miles around the women and children pass out cold

[BING:] When my voice hits the air

[FRED:] And my feet hit the ground

[BING:] Last night

[FRED:] Out in the moonlight

[BING:] I came to serenade

[FRED:] A very pretty maid

[BING:] I sang her to sleep with "Asleep in the Deep"

[FRED:] That always makes them collapse

[BING:] I saw her eyes close, then she started to doze

[FRED:] But she arose when I sounded taps

[BOTH:]

Which goes to show what women will do when we're around

[BING:] And my voice hits the air

[FRED:] And my feet hit the ground
