The day is done, the setting sun is sinking behind the blue
And on its way it seems to say I'm glad that my work is through Night is drawing near, stars will soon appear Buildings are beginning to light up their windows and as for me
I'm glad to be
At peace with the world with you

I love to spend the evening
At peace with the world with you

A cozy room, a comfy chair
And never a care as long as you're there

The day may have its worries
For skies are not always blue

But when the day has flown, how sweet to be alone
At peace with the world, in the evening with you
