My heart cries out to see how the youths them
Struggling
In a land that was made so free, for you and me, for you and me
The greed of some have become so high
Causing so many to die
While others though they find it so hard they're still Making a try, you can see it everyday
You rise early in the morning / To find the same old thing
Then you start to image, what the rest of the day may Bring to you, may bring to you
So you make a trod about / And return without a thing
And them kind of something make you really have to Think, it make you really have to think
For when you turn to the right Things doesn't seem so bright / Then you turn to the left Temptation lead you to a theft / So you look up in the sky
You hold your head and wonder why
Then you look down on the ground
Give thanks you're still around
Give Jah thanks to know you're still around
So how then in a land where there's plenty
So many people still remain hungry
They have it so hard / O, man it ain't easy
They have it so hard
Some of them turn to robbery--woooooo
My heart cries out, to see how the youths them
struggling
In a land that was made so free for you and me
For you and me / O why won't you be Let them, let them go, let them loose, they need to Be free
Don't you try to slow them down O, A
Let them go, let them go, let them loose.
