Surrender and know I've failed you
Now, let the darkness swallow you whole
Nothing could ever compensate
For what I've done, for what I've done to you

Tell me is there any recollection of a time
Before the abhorrent smell of death
Masked all the sugary scents of springtime
And these apparitions led me astray
Into the bowels of perdition?

Together, we created a world of sunlight
Darkness fell, as we walked away

Before an individual so cavalier, yet so depraved
Laid you down upon the shores of Acheron, of Acheron
Before we became immersed in iniquity

Together, we created a world of sunlight
Darkness fell, as we walked away

And as we walked away
The sky, it seemed to turn to black
We did create an environment that's oh, so dolent
But I'd give anything to change these memories
Back to reality and return us to the light

Together, we created a world of sunlight
Darkness fell, as we walked away
Together, we created a world of sunlight
Darkness fell, as we walked away

Surrender and know I've failed you
Now, let the darkness swallow you whole
Nothing could ever compensate
For what I've done, for what I've done to you, to you
For what I've done, for what I've done to you, to you
Now, walk away and end our days
