Take this from me, all that I need.
Necessity placed this before me and now my path is
laid.
If I thought that things would change, I'd extinguish this
fire,
but these flames burn deep in my heart
and their embers are my living desire.
You take my breath away.
Necessity placed this before me and now the path is
laid.
If I thought that things would change, I'd extinguish this
fire,
but these flames burn deep in my heart
and their embers are my living desire.
You're pinching my pockets for a piece of the pie.
If your profession was purely pro bono,
I'm sure that profession would die.
