"Quarantine"

While in quarantine,
are unable to do many things locked up,
being in bed all day,
lying down,
tolerate your pain and mourn, without the ability to go out for fresh air, with hopes that someone will embrace, but you're alone in your room,
being quarantined,

taking medicines repulsive forces have to wear face masks, and you take every pill that causes you to vomit, and the person who was caring you isn't now, being alone in one place, without love to help heal,
this sad disease,
nothing can fix,
time will decide,
while in quarantine;

there goes all the freedom, that someday was here
if you come out you could outwit, you would look strange,
as a hopelessly ill,
a person contagious,
and will make you mourn,
and return to your suffering, then think you're a damn kid suicide but the truth is,
that being in quarantine, nobody will want you near,
and your life as you see just ended, if it worsens you will hospitalize, may stay in a vegetative state, and soon you'll be disconnected, or simply you'll stay in quarantine.
