falling from outer space. broke out the glass to save myself from your face. faster and faster still. then my body disintegrates. feels like i'm knee deep in pills. just ask me why, because it's not for the thrill and another forty-eight hour day. you are who you are and it's breaking my heart, but you're saving my life until our next session starts. can't you see it's therapy for me? i knew from the start you'd be breaking my heart. can't you see it's (this is) therapy for me? you're swimming through my veins like a fish erasing my brain. and here i'll stay until they come and take me away.
