She was beautiful, but not yet mature
When she was left alone, she was left unsure
Of her future, trying just to make a way
Jaded and sedated by the games she used to play
Never found a way out of her selfish hole
She couldn't ever fill the void in her soul
The booze and drugs and cutting made her numb
She never had the chance to see she was blind and dumb

She never had the chance to go mad
Cuz she was crazy from the beginning
She never had the chance to go mad
Cuz she was crazy from the beginning

Her first mistake was trying to feel
But if she went along faking, she wouldn't have to deal
With the pain that was brought along
By singing all of her sad love songs
But she kept trying to find the light
When it never existed in her life
So she climbed up on a ladder, ready to fall
And that was the minute that ended it all

She never had the chance to go mad
Cuz she was crazy from the beginning
She never had the chance to go mad
Cuz she was crazy from the beginning
She never had the chance to go mad
Cuz she was crazy from the beginning
