Life was never easy but when troubles came along Together we could take 'em in our stride Through the good times and the tears through all the passin' years
Night and day you'd never left my side Now the shadows of the leaves on the grass beneath the trees
Are the only things that move across the lawn As I stand here all alone and read the words upon the stone
I begin to realize you're really gone Don't think it's just your troubled mind if suddenly you find That's something brushed away the bitter tears you've cried
If you feel something touch your face and disappear without a trace
And leave a warm familiar feeling by your side

It's not the shadows of the leaves in the early autumn breeze
As they blow along the grass that's summer dried Through the good times and the tears through the autumn of your years Night and day I'll never leave your side Oh the shadows of the leaves...
