"Lovely Fool"

In the silence of your mind
You should ask yourself what it is that makes you who you are
In the valley of your soul you should take a walk but you never go that far

It's strange that I should know you better than you do
You lovely fool
So strange
Everybody sees your light shine through except for you

In the window of your past There's a broken pane reflecting all the things that make you sad
In the shadow of your fear
There's no hiding place so why do you to you run there

It's strange that I should know you better than you do
You lovely fool
So strange that you should want to live your whole life through Broken and blue

You're a martyr for the cause but what that cause is I'm not sure
I'm sure it ends with no applause except for yours

In the church along my dreams I'll say a prayer
That one day you'll believe

It's strange that I should know you better than you do
You lovely fool
So strange
Everybody sees your light shine through except for you
You lovely fool
