these hammers and strings been following been following me around from a box filled garage to the the dark punk rock clubs of 1000 American towns and my friend calls me up she says how have you been?
I say Dear I've been well. yeah the money has been coming. but i miss as hell
I still hear you in this old piano, yeah
She says Andy, I know that we don't talk as much but i sill hear your ghost in these old punk rock clubs come on write me a song give me something to trust just promise you wont let it be just the keys you touch

Give me something to believe in a breath from breathing
So write it down
I don't think I'll close my eyes, Cause lately I've not been dreaming so whats the point in sleeping it's just that at night
I've got no where to hide so I'll write you a lullaby.

these hammer and strings been following me around behind passenger vans to snow dirts and sands

And My friends calls me up with her heart heavy still she says Andy the doctors prescribed me the pills but i know I know I'm not crazy

I just lost my will so why am I why am I taking them still?

So write it down
I don't think I'll close my eyes,

Give me something to believe in
So write it down I don't think I'll close my eyes, Cause lately I'm not dreaming so whats the point sleeping
to the sleepless this this is my reply so I will write you a lullaby.
