So Im walking down the street somewhere outside of San Francisco
And I dont really know my way around
Id love to stay a day or two and get into some trouble
But tomorrow Ill be in another town

There's at least one coffee bar for every single couple
And there's at least a couple in this place Strange the things you notice when the walls are closing in
And the walls are closing in on me today

So where oh where can I find someone, anyone
Cause theres no way out of here
But here is where I live and so I guess that means
The carrots gonna dangle for at least another year

I love anonymity and I love being noticed
Just the same as anybody else
Years ago I told you how I loved to be alone
These days I'd be perjuring myself

So where oh where can I find someone, anyone
Cause theres no way out of here
But here is where I live and so I guess that means
The carrots gonna dangle for at least another year

Its like you gave me up just like I gave up drinking coffee
So I guess I wouldve done the same
So now I know Im lost somewhere outside of San Francisco
But Im still glad that I came
