can you feel it in the air?
the air you're breathing? tore your ticket for the long ride home can you feel it in your prayer when you're kneeling? or do you bow just to raise up a stone?

old habits, they die hard in you, old loves, they leave shards in you but it's not too late to give a little love

everybody breaks
everybody love
everybody bleeds
love, everybody takes
everybody love
everybody needs love

this is the cost of living the price for breathing the silver thread that weaves us into one when the pain's too much to bear you want to stop believing Hallelujah!

there's nowhere else to run life is hard, but it will get better cause you and I, we were made to live forever on this side of fate, you've got toâ€¦ you found the note on the table you felt the blood rush into your face another heart broken in the name of love

everybody breaks
everybody love
everybody bleeds
from everybody, love
everybody needs love

we learn from the breaking the giving, the taking
we stand through the fire as the flames reach higher after all these years we find we've just begun to love
