I have a constant need for motion
I need to leave the past behind
To see all the good things I left dying
Come to life

So long I let them lies deceive me
And I let them take their toll
I'm growing tired of the illusion
I am in control

'Cause you are there in all my histories
My victories and pains
You are there in all my shadows
With forgiveness you are waiting

When I need a place to hide
When I need a place to hide

I need hope to start again
I need hope to start again
You give me hope
I need hope to start again

Into my own hands I take matters
'Cause deep in my heart I stole the throne
Where you have always led so faithfully
I know

Oh, doesn't it seem I'm always running
Most of the time it's not to you
Give me faith to know
Your promises are true

'Cause you are there in all my histories
My victories and pains
You are there in all my shadows
With forgiveness you are waiting

When I need a place to hide
When I need a place to hide

I need hope to start again

I need hope to start again
You give me hope
And I need hope to start again

Here is the place where I face my secrets
Where I lay them down

When I need a place to hide
When I need a place to hide
When I need a place to hide

I need hope to start again
I need hope to start again
You give me hope
I need hope to start again
