You put on your smile
It may last awhile
So much to do you're breaking
So much of you is fading away

In this crowded room, there are more like you
All of the time spent faking
Watching ourselves slowly drift away
But will we give it all away?

So run from the past that holds you
The nights that won't see you through
The shame in the mask you're holding
Will you give it all, give it all away?

I've been in your shoes, there's nothing left to lose
Why are you still waiting?
Don't let the truth slowly slip away
So will you give yourself away?

So run from the past that holds you
The nights that won't see you through
The shame in the mask you're holding
Will you give it all, give it all away? Yeah

So run from the past that holds you
The nights that won't see you through
The shame in the mask you're holding
Will you give it all, give it all, give it all away?
Will you give it all, give it all away? Yeah, yeah, away
Give away, yeah, yeah, away, yeah
