it's me, something that doesn't exist anymore just the shadow of what I was - a human being I remember the life I lived, now so far away memories are preserving my human part

I want a crystal heart to not feel this cries the beast is a part of me, I need it that's why I'll always have to fight it inviting power and desire it wants to take away the light of my soul it's me, forced to eat those I once belonged to at every drop I fall down, more and more a long night that will never end the only dawn I see comes from my mind
