Corruption and disease have swallowed this world left us all to blame Lust and its hateful consuming of dreams plays an evil game

From the day we tasted the fruit the falling of mankind
Evil has begotten its way has left all else behind this knowledge makes us blind Morality divine

We have become battered and bruised
We are all fallen battered and bruised

Eve the setting of the sun leave nowhere to run time ticking in haste gone what a waste

Stillness of the night now loud and absurd corrupting every thought leaders of this world consumed in debate what lessons can be taught
