You hit the ground 3000 miles too fast and you break
You fall into rivers of tears and you ache
And you hold onto the brink and you fall, you sink, it laughs and you think Iâ'm ok!
Well if Iâ'm ok
Why do I break?
And If I fall will I reform?
And If I fall will I reform?
So you pick yourself up and they laugh
And you dust yourself down to reveal scars and you hold on to the hope that wings will come to fix you
But itâ's too late
And If Iâ'm Ok?
Why does she break?
If I fall will I reform?
If I fall will I reform?
3000 miles and no one saves you
Please donâ't drown in your own tears
And I will try to save you
If youâ'd only try and save me
When you fall, you will reform
When you fall
You will reform
