You hold his hand and his lies
Plan a day while he cries
What else can you do?
He means something to you
What will you do when he dies?

Girl, he's killing himself
In a car when you're not driving
In a bar when you're not looking
With food that you're not cooking

And every minute you're not in it
What will you do when he dies?

You tuck the sheets on his bed
And you won't eat till he's fed
What more can you do?
When he's gone you are true
What will you do when he's dead?

Know he's surely going
In a bet that you're not taking
In a plane you're not flying
It's drugs that you're not buying

And every minute you're not in it
What will you do when he dies?

Girl, he's killing himself
In a plane you're not flying
Pills that you're not taking
And a bed that you're not making

And every minute you're not in it
What will you do when he dies?
