Last time I saw you it could've been Christmas eve
it could've been someone's birthday it could've been make believe for all I know it could've been make believe last time I saw you you had the room upstairs I never knew for certain what went on up there no I never did know what went on up there 'course you had that boyfriend with the Chevrolet he never met Will Rogers I'd be willing to say yeah it's safe to say he never met Will Rogers I guess it must have been a thousand years since I changed my number does it mean a thing when the phone don't ring and I don't call back can't help but wonder sometimes I never got to know you like I wanted to you never seemed to notice how I looked at you for all I know you never even noticed now that crowd's all scattered to here and yon everybody graduated or they just moved on for all I know they just moved on I guess it must have been a thousand years

since I lost your number gonna rest my soul
by this fishing hole gonna watch that pole
'till that float goes under last time I saw you it could've been Christmas eve
could've been make believe
