I'm not from here
I just live here
grew up somewhere far away come here thinking I'd never stay long I'd be going back soon someday it's been a few years since I got here seen 'em come and I've seen 'em go crowds assemble, they hang out awhile then they melt away like an early snow onto some bright future somewhere down the road to points unknown sending postcards when they get there wherever it is they think they're goin'

I'm not from here
can't see that it matters much I read the papers and I watch the nightly news who's to say I'm out of touch nobody's from here most of us just live here locals long since moved away sold the played-out farms for parking lots went off looking for a better way

better times on down the road wonder if they ever got there wherever it was they thought they'd go hit my home town a couple years back hard to say just how it felt but it looked like so many towns I might've been through on my way to somewhere else

I'm not from here
but people tell me it's not like it used to be they say I should have been here back about ten years before it got ruined by folks like me we can't help it we just keep moving it's been that way since long ago since the stone age, chasing the great herds we mostly go where we have to go

sending post cards when we get there wherever it is we think we'll go
