Nobody said you'd feel this way
The things you missed, all work, no play
Bringing you down, but there's another way

Prime Time through the day
You don't understand the price you pay
Maybe you can see living is easy

And now your best years passed you by
You never stopped to wonder why
I notice you've been feeling something lately

I don't think you understand reality
Just try to lighten your philosophy
And listen some reason, life's in season
