It's all the same, nothing's changed
Again, I found myself in the current
As I am gracelessly tossed around and around
Your words echo and your voice resounds
When we awake from our sleep
We'll know that this is where
We're supposed to be
With walls, and walls, and walls
Of water for miles
Just know that...
We are so fragile
And easily broken
But I'll try my hardest
To put you back together
If you do the same for me

For now just sleep my sweet
Don't worry about what tomorrow brings
So let's pretend that
We're giants among common men
Because we've never been taller

Than our demons within
We are so fragile
And easily broken
But I'll try my hardest
To put you back together
If you do the same for me
We are so fragile
And easily broken
But I'll try my hardest
To put you back together
If you do the same for me

Why did you have to leave me
Here to fend for myself?
Am I such a terrible man?
Am I such a terrible, terrible man?
I am such a terrible man!
Such a violent and hostile man!
