Going down the river by Jan Smit
In the summertime, i feel a rapture of delight
Packing up my traps, mounting my new motorbike
Looking for adventure, heading for the riverside
Yearning for excitement we're on a crazy river ride

Going down the river, me and you
Twenty-seven miles on a canoe
Cross white waters, high as walls
Splashing trough wild waterfalls
Going down the river sets you free
It is such a good good remedy
Let the wind blow trough your hair
Cast away all daily, daily care

When the sun goes down, and the twilight's on the shore
Search the riverbank, for a place where we can moor
Sitting around the fire, we're gonna pass the night away
Singing along together, until the early break of day

Going down the river, me and you
Twenty-seven miles on a canoe
Cross white waters, high as walls
Splashing trough wild waterfalls
Going down the river sets you free
It is such a good good remedy
Let the wind blow trough your hair
Cast away all daily, daily care

I hear a shout, "hey look out"
Be quiet a while, there's a crocodile
And then i shake, i see a rattle-snake
So let's be gone, and move along, right away

Going down the river, me and you
Twenty-seven miles on a canoe
Cross white waters, high as walls
Splashing trough wild waterfalls
Going down the river sets you free

It is such a good good remedy
Let the wind blow trough your hair
Cast away all daily, daily care
