"Interlude"

Last night I saw you again
I couldn't believe my eyes
You were in a car, on the passenger's side
I saw the corner of your eye from where you saw mine
It was an interlude
It lasted several parts of time
As I marched by the car where I could see you were
And I saw you before, you were very close to being the same
Just a little bit far away, from me, physically
So I hopped to my car
I packed the entire image into my mind
I took it for a lark
Another trick somebody played on me
