Sunday morning calm
I struggle just to find someone to talk to
Long and sleepless nights
I pace right through

I know you have to leave
And I know I won't be with you
So much we'll never say or do

Whispers fill the air
I want to cry out loud but no one hears me
Cannot comfort you
Can't even breathe

I hold on selfishly
I confess I'm lost completely
So much of us will never be

You'll go on and on
You'll go on and on
We'll go on and on

I can see you
I can feel you
Can you see me too
Can you feel me too

Even now in the first warm breeze of summer
I can feel your sweet smile
Just a welcome tease
That passes by

I've gone from missing you
To remembering your bright eyes
So much we'll say when it's our time

There's no way it can end in just a moment
There's no way I can stay here on my own
It's all crashing down around me and
Taking from me
What I believe
