On the mountain
On the other side
Y our winters changed me
Like other fire-flies

Nature gives and nature takes away
Like my blue eyes, that looked but couldn't see Through all your scenery

I set my borders around your ebb and flow
And you defined me, the fault is mine I know

Invisible and fast, we bled a lot of love
But love like that can never really last
It burns so hot and fast

How'd you get me to stay, stay for so long now, I stayed for so long now,
You kept me here somehow
You got some kind of way, your hold is so strong now, you hold me so strong now
I swear I don't know how You're a lock-up lover, You collared me slow now, collared me slow now
And baby I know now
I should have walked away a long time ago now, and found a way somehow
The fever's so strong now, I lost but I found out

Through dark, deluded days
You pulled me closer to you
And bred insanities
I never got to know you

This getting smart is tearing me apart
But you got a hold
You chained and balled me
Your oceans called me

This is shaky ground
Love's a luxury

The rush is over now
You stripped and mined me

And sent me down the road
With miles and miles and miles to go
