Honeymine, I've fallen to the bottom of an endless sigh Honeymine, it feels just like dream since you've been all the time

Honeymine, I've weakened to the wonder of your shameless smile
You've flowered all around and brought me off my mind

And I don't want to stare, it's incredibly rude
But I can't help believing your love is like food And I'll follow you down till we vanish from view Honeymine, you're constant as a rock, silent and superfine

Honeymine, my heart goes up in vapours when you toss that line
Honeymine, with fistfulls I bequeath everything, everthine

You shoulder heavy loads, suture and sanctify Honeymine, you soothe me with a touch soft as a lullaby

And I don't want to be here alone, I won't make it
If your real is forever I know I can take it Cause I'm radioactive and Lord I can't shake it Honeymine, you fly me as a kite, pour me like maple wine

Only give me sweetness, all you got is gold
More and more I need this, so tired of flying alone Ooh you'll go to heaven, you are stuffed with love tonight
When we flock together I can feel me getting right
