Mona Lisa smiles, yes I'm fluent in both tongues She's got legs for miles, she could make it fun
She knows, she toys, it shows, oh boy

Moulabunda she says, Will I try a little harder?
She wants everything I've got, she says she can almost taste it

She's that kind of girl, And she's knocking, knocking down my front door
She could rock your world, she could take you down like never before
She knows, she toys, we're girls

In another life, or maybe on another planet
We were loving life, we were lavender lovers, yeah

She's that kind of girl, and she's knocking, banging down my front door
She could rock your world, she could take you down
like never before
She knows, she toys, we're girls

And she keeps coming back,
and she keeps coming back for more
And she keeps calling me, and she keeps calling me for more
And she keeps coming back,
and she keeps coming back for more
And Sappho's calling me, and Sappho screams to me to come on, come on

She's that, and she's knocking, knocking down my front door
She could rock you, Oh, she could take you down and beg you for more
She's that kind of girl, and she's knocking, kicking down my front door She could, Oh, oh, she could shake you down and beg you for more
She knows, she toys, we're girls, oh boy

We're girls, we're girls, we're girls, we're girls
