Looking out the corner of her eye
And she sits alone and drinks her wine
Every man just wants to pass her by
And hopes that he can catch her eye

[Pre-Hook:]

That glow, it's in her eye
Give you visions in your mind
Just from another space and time
That's when you know you're hypnotized
And her intoxicating will not be denied
Oh, and when you touch her glow
She then becomes your drug
You fell some deep in love with that girl

[Chorus:]

It's too late, you're hypnotized
She's got Dorothy Dandridge Eyes
And you love her, you love her, you love her, you love that girl
It's too late, you're hypnotized
She's got Dorothy Dandridge Eyes
And you love her, you love that girl

Like a rear Pacaso or Monet
That kind of view you studied everything
Every woman wants her grace and style
But no one who can replicate her smile
