You're not ready -- Janet Gabriel

You should have told me you've been hurt sometime ago
By the girl that you loved
And gave diamonds and gold
She cheated on you behind your back
And strayed too far away to get back on track
Now you're takin' all your hurt and your pain on me
I did nothin' wrong
Why you trippin' on me boy
I can't deal with your pain from the past
You better deal and bear
Or our love wont last

Chorus

Maybe you're not ready for my love
Maybe, Maybe you're not ready for my love
Maybe you're not ready for my love
You're not, you're not ready boy

You should have told me that you needed time and space
But you get with me
Cos you're saving face
Now I clearly see you're insecurity
'Cos inside your mind
You think she's me
And I've always gotta prove myself to you
'Cos you're too blind to see
All the things that I do for you
Everyday and every hour
It used to be sweet but it's now turned sour

Chorus

Maybe you're not ready for my love
Maybe, Maybe you're not ready for my love
Maybe you're not ready for my love
You're not, you're not ready boy

Solo

If you needed time (needed time)
If you needed space (need space, heal your pain)
To heal your pain
You should have let me know
But you let your hurt
Destroy every we had
Something something so beautiful

Chorus

Maybe you're not ready for my love
Maybe, Maybe you're not ready for my love
Maybe you're not ready for my love
You're not, you're not ready boy
