Lupita's gonna weave a path to the land up north Gonna find her way through the thick of it all Looking at the lights dancing in the sky
Hoping for a fallen star Me consuelo viendo estrellas bailando en el puerto
Brought them gold from the country to help cure their illness
But they landed with only one purpose for conquest Though there's still this wave of unsettling hunger that never disappears
Rigo working one, two, three different jobs
And when he comes back home he welds into the night
Builds an air balloon for his pickup truck
Gonna fly up and over the wall
If everything stays exactly the same
Then nothing can move and nothing can change Me siento ese pÃijaro que danza sobre el
puerto
Carried ships from the sea up over the mountains
The warriors fell to their knees by the invisible virus
And still you can feel this wave of unsettling anger that never disappears
She's talking on the phone in the heart of town
To her Bachata Mama in the heart of the world
Saying "please come back to Santo Domingo Why you gotta be so far away"
If everyone stays exactly the same
Then no one can move and no one can change
"Amo ver la Luna vacilando en el puerto"
No one fortelling the depth and type of destruction
Nor the sadness trapped on the tongue of Malinche Quetzalcoatl feathers strewn out over the altar
Blood running down the pyramid steps in the morning
Codices lost to a language that's been broken There's this growing sense of impending anger
that never disappears
"Ninguna entrada , queda en el puerto"
