As I saw the break of day. I caught my breath and ran away. The dream is dead. The heart mislead. Crushed my body, crushed my head.

I'm tired again, I've tried again, feel to the floor, I failed once more. I never wanna cry one single tear again.

I can't stop myself, from calling out, your name at night. While lightening paints our havy clouds. The memories of what we had make me feel sad. Like cold rain kills a summer day:You're killing me!

I remember the nights we spent. Wasting time with someone else. As we kissed the sky fell in. Nothing left, nothing but pain.

I'm tired again, I've tried again, feel to the floor, I failed once more. I never wanna cry one single tear again.

I can't stop myself, from calling out, your name at night. While lightening paints our havy clouds. The memories of what we had make me feel sad. Like cold rain kills a summer day:You're killing me!

I can't stop myself, from calling out, your name at night. While lightening paints our havy clouds. The memories of what we had make me feel sad. Like cold rain kills a summer day:You're killing me!
